The First Indigenous Fuel Cell System launched DNA Technology (Use and Application) Regulation Bill - 2019 was passed by the Lok Sabha. Also, India adopted the redefined global units of measurement of kilogram, kelvin, mole and ampere from 20th May 2019 i.e. the World Metrology Day.

The Ministry of Science & Technology announced key missions including Atal Jai Anusandhan Biotech Mission - Undertaking Nationally Relevant Technology Innovation (UNaTI), which is expected to transform health, agriculture and energy sectors during the next 5 years. This mission included GARBH-ini - a mission to promote maternal and child health and develop prediction tools for pre-term berth, IndCEPI - a mission to develop affordable vaccines for endemic diseases, development of biofortified and protein rich wheat - contributing to POSHAN Abhiyan, mission on Anti Microbial Resistance for affordable diagnostics and therapeutics and Clean Energy Mission - innovative technology interventions for Swachh Bharat. The missions were announced on the occasion of the 33rd foundation day of the Department of Biotechnology in the Ministry of Science and Technology, Government of India, in New Delhi on 26th

February with the theme as "Celebrating Biotechnology: Building Indian as an Innovation Nation". On the occasion, Minister Dr. Harsh Vardhan gave away the Biotechnology Research Innovation and Technology Excellence (BRITE) awards.

The DNA Technology (Use and Application) Regulation Bill - 2019: The bill was passed on 8th January by the lower house of Parliament in a landmark decision. The Bill has been formulated recognizing the need for regulation of the use and application of Deoxyribonucleic Acid (DNA) technology, for establishing identity of missing persons, victims, offenders, under trials and unknown deceased persons.

Redefined units of measurement of Kilogram, Kelvin, Mole and Ampere implemented in India by CSIR-NPL:

After decades of ground-breaking laboratory works, the world's scientific and technical community, in a landmark and historic decision taken in the recent open session of the General Conference on Weights and Measures (CGPM) at BIPM on 16th November 2018, unanimously adopted the resolution to redefine four of the seven base units, the kilogram (SI unit of weight), Kelvin (SI unit of temperature), mole (SI unit of amount of substance), and ampere (SI unit of current). INDIAN ARMY: THE ULTIMATE DESTINATION TO FULFILL YOUR DREAMS

Major General JK Marwal, VSM (Retd.)

People at young age debate amongst themselves about the path they should take to achieve what they aim for themselves in life. Many career options are available to them, but what is best for them, is the question that every parent or every student is troubled with. It's a dream of every patriotic person to contribute his or her best towards nation building. The Indian Army offers that opportunity in abundance to every aspirant. It offers a golden opportunity to be a part of the world's finest Army and get trained to be an excellent soldier and a person for life. However, a major portion of our population is not fully aware of the process through which they can join the Army, the quality of life that the Army offers and what are the qualitative requirements of joining the Indian Army. Let us scan the ethos of the Army, the aptitude and life skills needed for entering the Indian Army; and how serving the armed forces can be a life changing experience.

- Before we move any further, we must know that the Army offers a variety of entry opportunities for men and women. The entry levels offered by the Army include 10th pass, 10 plus 2, graduate and post graduate levels. The aspirants can attempt to join the army at an Officer level or at Junior Commissioned Officer / Non Commissioned Officer / Sepoy levels. The level at which the aspirant wants to enter has to be chosen by the aspirant only. For details, the aspirants can visit the website : www.joinindianarmy.nic.in.

- Let us first have a glance at the ethos of the Indian Army. The Army trains its soldiers in a manner that they are infused by a set of values that make them willingly face and conquer a vast variety of challenges and difficulties, and when the call may come, to give the ultimate sacrifice in the service of the Nation.

- The values which are ingrained in all soldiers include an unwavering will to succeed, accepting their responsibility against all odds and an unbridled ability to give their lives for others. The credo of the Chetwode Hall of the Indian Military Academy, Dehradun is deeply imbibed amongst all ranks of the Indian Army and it binds all leaders with their troops in an unshakeable bond of camaraderie. The Chetwode Credo reads :

Highlights of PM Shri Narendra Modi's Mann ki Baat

In the 60th edition of his monthly radio programme Mann Ki Baat on 29 December 2019, Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi extolled the country's youth by praising their courage for detesting anarchy while following the system. The Prime Minister also reiterated his appeal to the countrymen to buy 'swadeshi' and encourage the zeal of small local entrepreneurs. Highlighting India's pioneering works in the discipline of astronomy, Shri Modi encouraged the country's youth who are resolute in fashioning astronomy's future. Congratulating the people of the country in advance for the New Year, the Prime Minister expressed hope that India will scale new heights in 2020.

- I extend my heartiest greetings to all countrymen on the arrival of year 2020. One thing is certain about the decade to come. And that is, it will witness the active contribution of those who were born in the 21st century, in the country's progress; these are people who are growing up, understanding the significant issues pertaining to this century. For some they are millennials; others call them generation Z or Gen Zee. Broadly speaking, one thing that has captured the collective psyche is that this is the 'Social Media Generation'. All of us experience that this generation is extremely talented. It thrives on the dream to do something new, something different. It has its own set of opinions. And the best part is; especially in the case of India; according to me, they appreciate the system. Not just that, they prefer to follow the system. And in the event of the system not responding properly, they get restless and even courageously question the system itself! I consider this attribute as a virtue. One can even say with certitude here, that the country's youth detests anarchy of any sort. They despise any element of lack of governance and instability; abhorring any shades of nepotism, casteism, favouritism or gender discrimination. Thus, our new generation is an embodiment, a reflection of a new system, a new order, a new age, a new thought. These are the very people who have to elevate the country to greater heights. This generation will play a major role in modernizing India; I feel it beyond any doubt. On the birth anniversary of Swami Vivekanand on the 12th of January, on the occasion of National Youth Day, every young person should give a thought to this responsibility, taking one resolve or the other for this decade.
- Just recently, I came across on the media, a story about "Sankalp 95." It was a free health camp organized not by the government or an NGO but was part of the Alumni Meet organized by former students of the local K.R. High School. 'Sankalp 95' means, the resolve undertaken by the 1995 batch of that High School. Under the aegis of 'Sankalp 95', Government Medical College of Bettiah and many hospitals also joined in this campaign. And after that, an entire movement centred on public health got started. Be it free medical tests, distribution of free medicines, or, just spreading awareness, 'Sankalp 95' has become a shining beacon for everyone. We often say that when every citizen of the country takes a step ahead, our nation moves 130 crore steps forward! And when such things are witnessed first-hand in the society, then everyone gets elated, derives satisfaction and is infused with motivation to do something in life!
- Women of Phulpur in Uttar Pradesh have inspired the entire region with their tenacity. These women have proved that if a resolution is taken with the true spirit of solidarity, nothing can stop conditions changing for the better. Till some time ago, these women of Phulpur were hampered by financial constraints and poverty, but, they had the resolve to do something for their families and society. These women aligned with the women self-help group of Kadipur, joined in learning the skill of making slippers, and thus not only managed to pluck the thorn of helplessness from their feet, but by becoming self-reliant, also became the support of their families. With the help of 'Gramin Ajivika Mission,' a slipper manufacturing plant has also been established here, where slippers are being made with the help of modern machines.

- I had urged from the ramparts of Red Fort on the 15th of August, requesting the countrymen to buy local produce preferably. Today once again I suggest, can we promote locally made products? Can we prioritize them in our shopping? Can we link local products with our status and pride? Can we become a medium to bring prosperity to our fellow countrymen with this spirit? My dear countrymen, can we pledge, that by 2022, when we achieve 75 years of independence we insist and remain steadfast at least, for about two-three years on buying local products? I do not advocate this for a long time, just till 2022, till the completion of 75 years of independence. And this work should not be carried out by government, instead of this young people should step forward at various places, form small organizations, motivate people, explain and decide -"Come, we will buy only local, products, emphasize on local products, carrying the fragrance of the sweat of our countrymen - That will be the exultant moment of my free India; let these be the dreams with which we proceed!
- My dear countrymen, it is very important for all of us, that the citizens of our country become self-reliant and live their lives with dignity. I would like to discuss one such initiative that has caught my attention and that is the 'Himayat Programme' of Jammu- Kashmir and Ladakh. In this programme, teenagers and youth from 15 to 35 years of age, those denizens of Jammu and Kashmir whose studies, for some reason, could not be completed, who had to leave school and college midstream are associated. Under the aegis of this programme, during the last two years, eighteen thousand youths, have been trained in seventy seven different trades. Out of these, around five thousand people are working somewhere or the other, and many have moved towards self-employment. There are many examples of talented youth who have become symbols of change in Jammu and Kashmir, benefiting from 'Himayat Mission'. The 'Himayat Programme' is a perfect example of a great synergy between the government, training partners, job providing companies and the people of Jammu and Kashmir. This program has given a new found confidence to the youth in Jammu and Kashmir, and shown them a way to forge ahead.
- My dear countrymen, on the 26th of this month, we witnessed the last solar eclipse of this decade. Possibly, this solar eclipse prompted Ripun to write a very interesting comment on the MyGov portal. He writes, "Hello sir. My name is Ripun...I belong to the North-East, and am currently working in south India. I would like to share something with you. I remember that due to the clear skies in our region, we used to gaze at the stars in the sky for hours together. I used to enjoy star-gazing. Now I am a professional, and because of my daily routine, I am unable to find time for such activities...can you discuss this topic in your show. Particularly, on how to popularise astronomy among the youth." My dear countrymen, I receive a lot of suggestions, but it would be safe to say that this suggestion is unique. I have often spoken about many aspects of science. Especially the insistence of the youth has given me an opportunity to talk about science. Friends, India has an ancient and glorious history of astronomy. Our connection with the twinkling stars in the sky is as old as our civilisation. Many of you might be aware that at various places in India, there are magnificent observatories (Jantar Mantars) - which are worth seeing. And these observatories have a deep bond with astronomy. India is quite advanced in the field of astronomy, and we have taken path-breaking initiatives in this field. We have a giant meter-wave telescope near Pune. Not just that, in Kodaikkaanal, Udagamandala, Guru Shikhar and Hanle Ladakh as well, powerful telescopes are located. In 2016, the then Prime Minister of Belgium and I, had inaugurated the 3.6 metre Devasthal optical telescope in Nainital. This is known as Asia's largest telescope. ISRO has an astronomical satellite called ASTROSAT. ISRO is planning to launch a satellite called Aditya, to study the sun. Whether it be our ancient knowledge in astronomy, or modern achievements in this field, we should strive to understand them and feel proud of them. Today, our young scientists not only display a great desire to know their scientific history, but also are resolute in fashioning astronomy's future.

- My dear countrymen, we consider our Parliament as the temple of our democracy. Today, I wish to proudly mention, that the parliamentarians that you have elected have broken all the records of the last 60 years. In the last 6 months, both the sessions of the 17th Lok Sabha have been very productive. Lok Sabha's productivity stands at 114%, while that of Rajya Sabha is 94%. And prior to that in the budget session, it had a productivity of 135%. Often, Parliament functioned till late at night. I am mentioning this because all Parliamentarians deserve to be congratulated and complimented for this.
- My dear countrymen, the movement of the sun, moon and earth doesn't just determine eclipses, rather many other things are also associated with them. We all know, that based on the sun's motion, various festivals will be celebrated throughout India in the middle of January. During this time, we will see the celebration of Lohri in Punjab, Pongal in Tamil Nadu and Maagh Bihu in Assam. These festivals have a close link with the prosperity of farmers and their crops. These festivals remind us of India's unity as well as its diversity.
- My dear countrymen, this is the final episode of "Mann ki Baat" in 2019. We will meet again in 2020. New Year, new decade, new resolutions, new energy, new enthusiasm, new zeal - come let's move forth. Let's enable ourselves to fulfill our resolutions. We have to walk far, we have to achieve a lot, we have to take our country to new heights. Let's show immense faith in the pursuits (actions), the abilities and the resolve of 130 crore countrymen, and come - let's move forth.

INDIAN ARMY ...

“The safety, honour and welfare of your country comes first always and every time. The honour, welfare and comfort of the men you command comes next. Your own ease, comfort and safety comes last always and every time.”

- The ethos of the Indian Army are imbibed in all soldiers through the years of training and the same are covered hereafter. A soldier lives and dies for Naam, Namak and Nishan. 'Naam', i.e. name - honour of the unit/Army/Nation; 'Namak' i.e. salt - loyalty to the Nation, and 'Nishan', i.e. the insignia or the flag of his unit/regiment / Army / Nation which every soldier holds afloat with full dedication and commitment. ETHICS FOR YOUNG PROFESSIONALS

Rahul Sharan

The journey from being a student to a professional is a difficult one. It is not easy to get a job in India especially when there are so many educated, skilled and talented young people. Getting a government job is much more difficult since it usually involves a rigorous selection process consisting of a written test, group discussion and a personal interview.

Landing a job definitely provides a sense of financial security, social recognition and increase in self-esteem. It is quite normal to assume that the challenges would be reduced substantially once we get a job. However, a new set of challenges come to the fore, when we start working. A working life is different from a college life or other forms of social interaction. In our student life, we can choose our friends but in a job set up, we can't choose our Manager, colleagues or even our subordinates - we have to work with people and the conditions which the work environment provides.

A sense of power is associated with a job and it has been rightly said that with power comes responsibility - greater the power, greater is the responsibility. Young professionals need to understand the implications of their work and the related ramifications of the decisions that they take.

One of the challenges that we need to take care of in a job/as a professional are the ones related to ethics. Ethics can be broadly defined as a system of morals or rules of behavior which defines what is good for the individuals and the society. It is derived from the Greek word ethos which can mean custom, habit or character. It is important to mention that in a few cases being unethical may be different from being on the right side of law. Ethics is not enforceable by law.

The government officials are expected to abide by a code of ethics and values. For example, below are a few important points related to expected standards of the civil services to provide for accountability of civil servants to ensure good governance and better delivery of services to citizen:

- ♦ promote the principles of merit, fairness and impartiality in the discharge of duties;
- ♦ maintain accountability and transparency;
- ♦ maintain political neutrality;
- ♦ maintain courtesy and good behaviour with the public;
- ♦ declare any private interests relating to his public duties and take steps to resolve any conflicts in a way that protects the public interest;
- ♦ act with fairness and impartiality and not discriminate against anyone particularly the poor and the under-privileged sections of society;

As a professional, we should strive to be a polite, courteous and a good colleague, boss & subordinate and maintain a strong personal ethics. Young professionals are most vulnerable with respect to ethical questions since they would be new to working, may still be developing the skills and understanding the tools required to perform a job well.

In one of the studies conducted on young professionals, it was found that young professionals, often know the right thing to do, but don't take the right action since it helps them further their career by bending the rules or engaging in morally questionable behavior. Even if we don't know the right thing to do, if we spend some time pondering on the subject, we will know the right course of action.

Young professionals may face ethical dilemmas in their day to day working e.g. what to do if the Boss or the culture of the department creates a situation where whatever we do, we take an unethical course of action? In such situations, it may be convenient to consider it as a professional hazard/ sell out to further one's career but that is clearly not the right approach. In such a case, it is best to present your boss an alternative and ethical solution. If you can't come up with a good solution, seek a mentor you trust, confide in and discuss the situation and provide your thoughts on possible solution.

Young professionals should reflect on the decisions that they make and approaches they take by asking questions such as whether they are proud of the kind of worker they are, and would they want to live in a society in which every member of the profession carried out work in the ways it is currently executed. Responding to these questions regularly can keep professionals honest and may offer opportunities to correct a misguided decision or action.

When we face moral dilemmas, most of us justify our action by assuming that we didn't have a choice. Let's get this straight, we should not fool ourselves by saying that we didn't have a choice - we always have an option and it is up to us to exercise that option.

Also, in a lot of unethical dealings, someone would say 'let's be practical'. Let's get over this phenomenon at the earliest. Mostly being practical may mean taking the convenient/ profitable route ignoring ethics.

Every code of ethics is largely based on the trinity of Selflessness, Justice and Empathy.

Justice demands that any decision should be fair to all the parties concerned/ stakeholders. There shouldn't be any discrimination - on the basis of religion, caste, gender, race, region, language, background or any such thing. Discrimination of any kind is wrong, and Justice should not be compromised under any circumstances.

Empathy demands that we do unto others as we would expect they do unto you. We should put ourselves in other person's shoes and then we would understand the other person's point of view.

Selflessness is not ambiguous but perhaps the most difficult to follow. We can take an objective decision if we remove self-interest out of the equation. It is important to note that in any decision we take, our self-interest is not involved/ there is no conflict of interest. The motto of ethics, according to Swami Vivekananda, is 'Not Self; but Non-self'.

Selflessness is easy to decide but how do we sort out cases where there is a conflict between the need for justice and empathy e.g. consider a situation where if we decide based on justice, we would take one decision whereas if we consider empathy, we would take exactly opposite decision. Consider a situation where you have to decide annual increments and Sita has performed better than Ramesh, BUT Ramesh needs money much more so that he can take care of his family and ailing parents while Sita is single and wealthy. In such a situation, however much we feel empathy towards Ramesh, higher increment should be given to Sita since one has to be just as a Manager.

In terms of work ethics, it helps to consider work as worship. Also, let's remember that if a work is worth doing it's worth doing well (otherwise don't do it). Good work ethics means that the stamp of quality should be evident on any work we do/ output we produce.

As a young professional, it is important to be aware about the purpose of work (e.g. to ensure good law and order for police) and be proactive about the approach to take to perform the work. It may be helpful to identify the role models/ admirable workers in the field that you are working eg A.P.J. Abdul Kalam (for scientists), Kiran Bedi (for police) and Raghuram Rajan (finance/ banking) and emulate them.

As a government servant, we may have to take decisions which have far reaching consequences, it would be good to remember the Talisman given by Gandhiji. He said "I will give you a talisman. Whenever you are in doubt, or when the self becomes too much with you, apply the following test. Recall the face of the poorest and the weakest man [woman] whom you may have seen, and ask yourself, if the step you contemplate is going to be of any use to him [her]. Will he [she] gain anything by it? Will it restore him [her] to a control over his [her] own life and destiny? In other words, will it lead to swaraj [freedom] for the hungry and spiritually starving millions? Then you will find your doubts and your self melt away."

A traditional but very simple lesson of ethics is:
 "For the good of a village, a man ought to give up his family;
 For the good of a country, he ought to give up his village;
 For the good of humanity, he may give up his country;
 For the good of the world, everything."

As a professional, we should be ready to sacrifice ourself for the good of the department, sacrifice the department for the good of the organization and sacrifice the organization for the good of the country.

It is very important to take care of the customer (since they are the reason for our existence) and listen to our boss. However, this doesn't mean that 'The Customer is always Right' or 'The Boss is always right' - the only truth is that 'Ethical Actions are always Right'. If your professional commitment clashes with ethical values, just stick to ethical action/ behavior. Validate your thinking first and don't let the seniors influence/ intimidate you.

Let me conclude by saying that when we come to a crossroad in life, we need to take the right path, which may be difficult to tread but the one which is made of principle - which leads to character. If one is upright, one would always do what is right - whether he/ she is acting as an individual, as a professional, part of a society, business or even the government.

The Pentagon in a statement termed it a decisive defensive action to protect US personnel abroad. It said, General Soleimani was actively developing plans to attack American diplomats and service members in Iraq and throughout the region. The US Department of Defense said, General Soleimani and his Quds Force were responsible for the deaths of hundreds of American and coalition service members and the wounding of thousands more. Deputy commander of Iraq's powerful Hashed al-Shaabi paramilitary force Abu Mahdi al-Muhandis was also killed in the airstrike. Meanwhile, President Donald Trump said he believes Kim will stick to his commitments on denuclearization, even as he threatened the new weapon. Despite three meetings between Kim and Trump, little tangible progress has been made.
